

The Bliss Classification Bulletin

950 University Ave. ————— The H. W. Wilson Company ————— New York 52, N. Y.

Vol. II, No. 3, April 1963

F O R E W O R D

The material in this issue of the Bulletin consists for the most part of:

(i) The second instalment of changes in Class J, Education. These are designed to adapt it to British conditions, and for these, as for the first instalment, we are indebted to Mr. C. B. Freeman, of the Institute of Education of the University of Hull, and to Mr. J. D. Dews, of the Institute of Education of the University of Durham.

It should be noted that the sections JL-JP may be regarded, for British Libraries, as complete replacements of the existing schedules. This seemingly drastic adjustment is justified, we think, by the fact that these sections, dealing as they do with the organisation of the educational system rather than with general pedagogic theory, demand a treatment for the British system which is in many details different from that provided for the American system. But for any librarian who does not wish to adopt them in their entirety, it will be found that they are as far as possible consistent with the existing schedules and he may select only those parts he considers to be necessary.

(ii) A substantial number of adjustments to Class O, Australia, Asia and Africa, to take account of the widespread changes in political status, boundaries and names which have occurred recently in various ex-colonial territories. These adjustments were supplied by Mr. Alan Horne of the Commonwealth Institute, London, to whom we are indebted. No index changes or additions are listed for these adjustments since they are self-evident.

Index changes and additions for the other classes are listed at the end of the schedule changes, arranged by class number involved.

To the list of libraries using the B. C. can now be added: The Commonwealth Institute, South Kensington, London, S. W. 7.; The Haberdashers' Aske's School, Elstree, Hertfordshire; the National College of Food Technology, Weybridge, Surrey (which has prepared a detailed classification for Food Industries--based on Mr. D. J. Foskett's expansion of Class F53 of the Colon Classification--which is located in Class UW of the B. C.).

School librarians and many users of the B. C. will be interested to know that considerable progress has been made in the preparation of an edition of the B. C. especially adapted to School Libraries. Mr. C. B. Freeman is Secretary of this project and he will be pleased to hear from any school librarians who may be willing to assist with the work, in however modest a capacity.

Regarding the future of the Bulletin itself, we must again make a plea to users of the B. C. to come forward and assist by supplying it with material. Inevitably, all users of the scheme must continually find themselves with problems of classifying in which they make decisions as to the location of some new topic or of a topic not appearing in the existing schedules, or decisions as to the interpretation of the scope of a particular heading. All such decisions are of interest to the readers of the Bulletin. We do not want users to think that we are interested only in substantial additions or adjustments to the schedules. We wish the Bulletin to be a forum for all the problems which arise in the use of the B. C., however minor, and to this end we would welcome any contribution, even if it is simply a note as to the location of a single topic not yet provided for.

Readers of the Bulletin will be sorry to hear that Dr. Campbell has reluctantly resigned the Honorary Editorship, owing to pressure of work. Mr. J. Mills, late of the North-Western Polytechnic Department of Librarianship, is acting as Honorary Editor for the time being. All users of the B. C. are indebted to Dr. Campbell for the excellent work he has done and we would like to take this opportunity of thanking him for it.

J. Mills
Hon. Editor
